Quarterly report

Revenue grew twelve percent year over year while costs stayed flat, so margin widened. New customers came mostly from the regional programme launched in spring, and churn fell to its lowest level in three years. Hiring stayed on plan and the two open engineering roles were filled in August. Capital expenditure was below budget because the warehouse extension was postponed to the next quarter after the permit was delayed by the council.

Second page: outlook remains positive for the coming quarter.

Management expects demand to hold and pricing to remain stable through winter.
